WORDS OF CAUTION

While the world is waiting with bated breath, fearful that war may break out in Europe, we sit nonchalantly by and pay no heed to the carnage that is daily taking place within our sight. We are either doing very little to curb the slaughter or our methods are ineffective.

Now that the first days of spring are here we can expect an increase in fatalities. The call to the open road is strong and auto owners will be out in force to enjoy the balmy weather and go places for outings.

Last year 30,000 bloody corpses dotted the streets and highways and these fatalities were caused by 10 percent of the drivers. Of course YOU were not among them. Now it is your turn to admit fault or negligence in the handling of a car. It is always the other fellow who is the cause of the accident. But unless caution is exercised YOU may be one of the 30,000 or more whose lives will be offered as a useless sacrifice.

Even if you are not involved among the 10 per cent which causes the wrecks and deaths, you will have a better chance to survive this and subsequent years if you observe the following admonitions:

Do you ever pass on curves or hills? If so, you have been guilty of an act that has caused thousands of fatalities and millions of injuries. Do you ever drive on the wrong side of the road or weave in and out?

Three Held As Big Still Is Seized

State Board of Equalization officers yesterday arrested three men and seized a large still in a building known as "The Palace" in San Pablo.

Nello Monticelli, 125 Parke avenue and V. F. Barise, 156 Wool street, San Francisco, were arrested in the building and Sam Bula, 3 Santa Ynez street, San Francisco, was arrested by officers when he arrived at the house with seven cases of yeast in his car.

Monticelli and Barise claimed that they were working on the building. They are charged with illegal possession of a still while Bula will be held for investigation. Ownership of two automobiles found at the house is being traced.

Officers declare that partitions in the building had been removed, a brick foundation had been installed in the basement and a hole was cut in the first floor to permit installation of a large gas boiler. The still, which was not assembled, was lying on the floor. Four 10,000 gallon tanks had been installed. Five tons of sugar were found stored in the building.

S. Cazza, owner of the building who lives nearby, appeared and expressed surprise that the building was occupied. He denied that he had rented it to anyone.

END OF DOG TRACK CASE IS IN SIGHT

Option selling on dogs is not such an involved process, according to explanations made from the witness stand in the dog case trial in the Superior Court in Martinez yesterday, neither is it gambling as the state would have it appear.

The witnesses, called by the prosecution, made the matter so plain that even a jury could hear and understand. And although there was many points on which counsel for prosecution and defense violently disagreed during the day's session, Attorney Leo Sullivan, who is representing the seven men on trial, charged with pool selling, seemed very pleased over the line of testimony and evidence and agreed that the modus operandi was as had been described by his opponents.

According to the story related, there are two organizations operating in the El Cerrito dog track. First there is the Breeders' Association, to which all the dog owners belong, and then there is the Kennel Club, which handles the business of selling options on the cranes. The dog owner parts with the title to his dog, after placing a price or value on it, the title vesting in the Kennel Club which races it.

Options are sold on the various races and anyone holding an option on a dog which comes in first, second or third can apply his winnings, plus the balance of the purchase price and the dog becomes his property. Non-winning dogs can also be claimed by those holding options on them, by putting up the owner's price, which is stated in the program.

Several dog men were on the stand in the afternoon and although it has been asserted during the trial that no one ever exercised an option of purchase on any dog, the system being an alleged subterfuge to cover a system of pool selling or gambling, testimony was given to the contrary; in fact the owners said on the stand that they raised the dogs in the hope of expectation.

Lack Of Safety On WPA Project Is Hit By Jury

A belief that proper precautionary measures are not being taken to protect WPA workmen on the Mare Island navy project was expressed by a coroner's jury here last night at an inquest conducted into the death of James Louis, who died last week.

The jury found that Louis died of pneumonia and expressed the opinion a contributing factor in his death might have been an accident suffered on April 6 at the navy yard. Louis was struck by a falling iron bar on that day, was brought home and never arose from his sick bed. He was employed as a carpenter on the project.

Suicide was the verdict in the death of Martin F. Ney, retired army officer who slashed his wrists in a west side rooming house on April 25.

Dr. C. L. Abbott conducted the inquests. R. F. Bonham was foreman of the jury.

STANAVOS WIN FIRST GAME IN TWILIGHT LOOP

Opening the annual Standard Oil Twilight Baseball League yesterday afternoon, the Stanavos team defeated the Orontes club by a score of 9 to 7 before what is believed to have been a record crowd.

Officials of the Standard Oil company were present. There were the usual opening ceremonies and flag raising rites.

The "good old days" of 1926-27-28 were recalled by the record turnout of fans who cheered on the players and handed Spike Elder his usual portion of razzberries. Mons. Elder occupied the "umpatorial" position behind the plate, calling them as he saw them—but not always as the players saw them.

The Stanavos opened the scoring in the first inning when they pounced upon Nelson and scored two runs. In the second inning Nelson was the victim of another batting attack and two more runs crossed the plate. Nelson was promptly relegated to the right field position and Fitzgerald took up the hurling duties. In the third inning the winners scored one more run but went scoreless in the fourth. In the fifth inning two runs crossed the plate and one run was scored in each of the sixth and seventh cantos.

The Orontes made one in the first, two in the fourth and one each in the fifth and sixth innings.

The Orontes staged a rally in the last of the seventh, scoring two runs and falling two short of tying up the ball game.

Zimny Zimmerman, second baseman for the winners had a perfect day at the plate. He got three for three and scored two runs. Krasovich got two for three and scored two runs.

Nelson, with three hits in four times at the plate was the heavy sickman for the Orontes.

Another game will be played this evening at the First Street field, starting at about five o'clock.

Slayer Of Ski Expert Given Life Sentence

MODESTO, May 6.—UP.—William McManus, 23 year old convict, was taken to Folsom prison tonight where he will begin serving a life sentence for the murder of Eliza De Raas, Ripon rancher and ski jumper.

McManus, termed by District Attorney Leslie A. Cleary a "product of bad environment," waived preliminary hearing and plead guilty before Judge L. J. Maddux, who immediately imposed the sentence.

A previous burglary conviction in California and an unserved felony sentence in Oregon made it obligatory that he be sent to Folsom. De Raas' body was found by farm workers in a field near Modesto April 17. With only the calibre of the death bullet, and a few footprints in the plowed ground to serve as clues, Sheriff Grat M. Hogan of Stanislaus county tracked down McManus on a trail which led him through Southern California then north to the Oregon State prison.

McManus, who was serving a sentence for a street holdup, admitted the slaying under cross questioning after first denying it.

De Raas was a prominent California skier, and participated in several championship events in the High Sierras.

CORRECTING CATARRH

Although catarrh can not be considered dangerous, it is unquestionably one of the most common of the minor nuisances of life. When the patient develops a tendency to this disorder, he usually tries to suppress the symptoms by use of sprays or antiseptic washes of various sorts, forgetting that such local treatment will fail to remove the catarrhal inflammation because it does not reach deeply enough to remove the real causes, which are systemic causes.

Catarrh should be overcome, not only because chronic catarrhal inflammation induces an annoying discharge of mucus, but also because such inflammation may pave the way for the development of sinus trouble, chronic bronchitis, enlarged tonsils and adenoids, catarrhal deafness, discharge from the ear, etc.

Catarrh, like constipation, is one of the common conditions of civilization. This is because of the fact that civilized habits of living are such that they encourage those faulty habits of living which lessen health. In fact, catarrh may be rightly considered the first step away from health—one of the first signs that a departure from normal health is taking place.

Chief among the habits of living which induce catarrhal inflammation is wrong diet. In every case, the patient has been using starches and sugars in excess, at the same time that he takes too few of the vital vegetables. The fundamental cause of chronic catarrh is an excess accumulation within the body of too large a quantity of material formed from the carbohydrates. The excess accumulation of the products resulting from an imperfect carbohydrate metabolism must be eliminated in some manner and the body often uses the mucous membranes as a channel for this purpose. The mucous membrane, in turn, becomes congested and engorged, and finally the condition of chronic inflammation is produced.

The patient has used too large a quantity of starches and sugars, which are acid forming and consequently lower the normal alkalinity of the blood which should be preserved if the health of every tissue in the body is to be maintained. The acid formed from the waste products of carbohydrate foods is rarely discharged through the mucous membranes and irritates them sufficiently so that they secrete an abnormally large amount of mucus for the purpose of washing away these irritating materials. Recovery depends upon making the necessary dietary changes so that the patient is using more of the non-starchy vegetables and less of the starchy foods. This results in a better balance in the diet and in a decrease in the discharge of mucus. In fact, the patient who is willing to experiment will find the flow of mucus markedly increased simply by eating quantities of bread, doughnuts, cake, cookies, pie, macaroni, spaghetti, puddings, and other foods which are highly starchy. Likewise, he will find that the amount of mucus thrown out will be much less if he avoids these foods and makes the bulk of his meals as salads, cooked vegetables and a moderate amount of meat. Starches, sugars, fats and milk are the foods which provide sufficient material out of which the irritating products causing catarrh may be obtained. These foods might be termed "catarrh-producing" to the extent that in excess amounts they will invariably increase catarrhal inflammation in the one having a tendency to this trouble.

During the time that the patient is seeking to overcome catarrh, he will make the most rapid recovery only when such foods are kept to the minimum or avoided altogether. Later, as the mucous membranes return to a more normal condition, such foods may be re-introduced into the diet in moderate amounts without any catarrhal symptoms resulting.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Chest-Sounding)
Question: "Inquirer" writes: "I would like to know if chest-soundings is a positive test for finding out the condition of the lungs."

Answer: Percussion of the chest is a method which is valuable in the hands of a skilled diagnostician. The best method of chest examination is with the fluoroscope and by means of the X-ray pictures.

(Catarrh and Wholewheat Bread)
Question: Mrs. E. W. writes: "May one who has catarrh eat wholewheat bread and muffins?"

Answer: Wholewheat bread and muffins are wholesome foods, but all starches should be discontinued by the catarrhal patient until the excess amount of mucus has subsided. After that these foods may be used in moderation with good results.

(Nose-Bleed)

Question: A Mother writes: "What causes excessive nose bleed in a girl nine years old? She has had at least one nose bleed a day since the time she was three years old."

Answer: Your child probably has especially sensitive nasal membranes, and treatment may be necessary to bring about a firmer tone to these structures. Go to a doctor who uses local violet ray treatments. These treatments consist in raying the inside of the nose with the actinic ray. They would be similar to using concentrated sunlight. There is no need for your little daughter to continue to suffer with nosebleeds as it is quite possible to toughen the sensitive membranes.

GILBERT ACCEPTS CASH AND FOREGOES TRIP

Officer P. M. Gilbert who won the first prize for the most popular person in El Cerrito contest which ended last week, says that he is going to accept the $200 cash instead of the trip to the Hawaiian Islands, and that the Hawaiian girls are just going to have to try to get along without seeing him.

The officer wishes to thank his many friends here who gave him their votes so generously, thus enabling him to win first place in the contest.

Mrs. Peralta, who won second place in the contest and also had a choice of the trip to the Islands or $200 in cash, said when interviewed yesterday that not only had she chosen the cash but had spent it already, so it seems that the Hawaiians will have to forego the pleasure of making the acquaintance of any El Cerritan this year.

Joe Kase who ran first so long and finally dropped back to third place took his $25 check and put it to good use, he said yesterday, as also did Miss Alyce Campbell who won the fourth prize of $25 in cash.

Safety Tires Are Placed On Chrysler Cars

Pioneering another safety development, the Chrysler Corporation has announced that the new "Lifeguard" tube recently perfected by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company is now available in all Chrysler Motor cars.

Curry Auto Sales company, Chrysler-Plymouth dealer, stated that Chrysler engineers recently vividly demonstrated the effectiveness of the new tube by mechanically blowing out the tires of cars speeding along a highway. The cars equipped with ordinary tubes swerved and careened dangerously, while the "Lifeguard" equipped ones proceeded smoothly down the track to an easy stop.

"The Goodyear 'Lifeguard' tube does not prevent blow-outs—but it does make them harmless," Curry Auto Sales company said. "Regardless of extravagant claims, there is no such thing as a blow-out-proof tire today, due to operating factors beyond the manufacturer's control, but this new development makes the blowout danger-proof, fire company engineers claim."

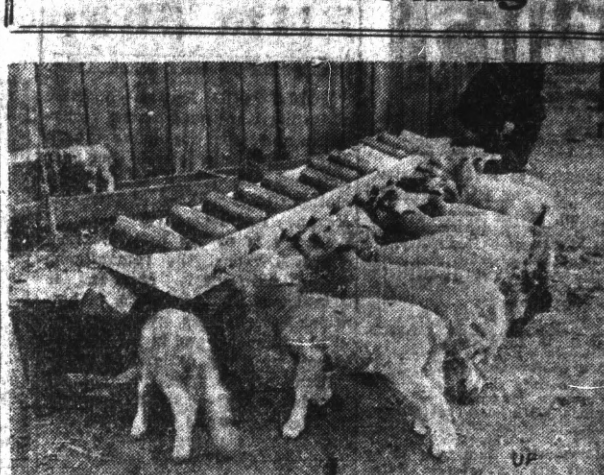

"The 'Lifeguard' tube consists of a heavy tube with a second tube built inside—in reality, twin tubes one inside the other, both inflated by the same valve. The air passes from the inner tube to the outer tube thru one small vent. Should the tire become weakened or damaged enough to cause a blowout, only the outer tube 'blows.' The inner tube remains inflated for one-half to three-quarters of a mile, enabling the driver to hold the car on the road and bring it to a safe stop. The new tube converts a blowout into a slow leak."

"This safety factor which is the result of years of experimentation on the part of Goodyear and Chrysler engineers, takes its place with steel bodies, hydraulic brakes and safety glass as a Chrysler contribution to motoring safety."

OLD PEOPLE find way to keep breath wholesome

Halitosis (bad breath) quickly yields to Listerine, safe antiseptic and deodorant

Either because of stomach disturbances, food fermentation, or the wearing of false teeth, old people frequently have halitosis (bad breath). No wonder others consider them a nuisance.

But now Science has found that the regular use of Listerine will effect a permanent cure of mouth odors due to the fermentation of tiny bits of food on mouth, teeth, or dental plate surfaces.

This safe antiseptic and quick deodorant works quickly. It cleanses mouth, teeth, and gum surfaces. Halts fermentation and putrefaction, a major cause of odors, and then counteracts the odors themselves.

Try using Listerine every two or three days. See how much more wholesome it leaves your mouth. How it sweetens your breath. Lambert Pharmaceutical Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Don't Take Pills For Constipation

Constipation pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver secrete its acids. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills. What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic to stimulate the system of all four secretions and at the same time restore the normal flow of the bowels. When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, constipation, bloated stomach, gas, nervous attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble.

The Hindenburg took off immediately after the arrival by airplane of several bags of mail from Frankfurt. When the mail plane was first sighted, the Zeppelin authorities gave the crisp order, "all aboard" and the few passengers who had not already boarded filed into the gondola.

The mail was speedily transferred from the plane to the Hindenburg and we were on our way to inaugurate regular dirigible flights across the North Atlantic.

ITALY SERVES NOTICE

PARIS, May 6.—Italy today served notice on France and Great Britain that Ethiopia henceforth must be regarded as Italian territory.

At the same time Premier Benito Mussolini officially notified the Quai D'Orsay of three decisions:

WILL OBSERVE RIGHTS

1.—Italy will respect French rights in Ethiopia. At present they are limited to the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad.

2.—Italy will respect British rights in the Lake Tana area.

3.—Italy pledges that there will be no militarization of native Ethiopians.

ITALIAN TERRITORY

Conveying Mussolini's decisions to the Foreign Office, the Italian ambassador said:

"Henceforth Ethiopia is Italian territory. It will be defended by arms against whomever tries to take an inch of it."

Il Duce revealed through his envoy that there is no possibility of drafting peace terms on the basis of the Anglo-Franco-Italian treaty of 1904 which recognized sphere of influence in Ethiopia but also provided for Ethiopian independence.

of selling them through this method and were glad to see people exercise their options.

So the proposition is very simple and elementary after all, despite the fact that much of the testimony heretofore made it look to be a very complicated system. Sam Stewart, Paul Sutherland and Sy Sampson were dog owners called out of turn to permit them to testify and continue their journey to Fresno.

NEARING THE END

Indications point to the fact that the trial is coming near to its end, as far as the prosecution's case is concerned. Today, it would appear, would mark the finish. What the defense will do is a matter only for conjecture. Attorney Sullivan may and again may not call any witnesses; or any of the defendants to the stand. He contends that the prosecution has thus far failed to prove the connection of a single defendant with the accusations of the information which would indicate that before putting on a case he will make a motion for an instructed verdict, in behalf of his clients.

BITTER BATTLE

Papers used in connection with the option system, seized the night of the raid—December 18th, if anyone has forgotten the date—were provocative of a long and bitter battle between District Attorney Healey and Attorney Sullivan. The latter objected to them being received in evidence, contending that the documents had not been connected with any of the defendants. The jury was excused while the question was being heatedly argued. Sullivan insisted that one complete transaction involving one person had to be established before other evidence could be introduced. Judge Johnston, who was compelled by reason of the frequent wrangles to admonish "both of you boys to keep quiet," ruled that the prosecution had established a prima facie case and therefore cumulative testimony and evidence, were admissible. The jury was recalled and the trial proceeded.

OPERATIVE ON STAND
J. L. Williams, a Morse Patrol operative whose direct examination was just finished when court adjourned last Friday afternoon resumed the stand yesterday morning for cross-examination when court convened.

He had testified that he had purchased an option, which he turned over to the sheriff's office.

"Did you make any effort to redeem the option," Sullivan asked.

"No," Williams answered.

"Did you make any distinguished mark on the option?"

"No."

"Can you point out any of the men you saw there the night of the raid?"

"Yes," pointing out defendants Rockius and Marsales.

"You did not purchase the option from either of them?"

"No."

"Did you purchase an option from any of the seven men here on trial?"

"No."

"Did you have any business transaction with any of these seven defendants?"

"No."

"The only transaction you had with Rockius was obtaining a refund on a roundtrip ticket to San Francisco, was it not?"

"Yes."

"Did you make any attempt to exercise the option you bought?"

"No."

"Did you read the program, which you testified you bought, to ascertain the terms of the option?"

"No."

"You were at the track in the capacity of a private investigator, were you not; merely acting under instructions and when you turned over the option and the money you took from Rockius, you were merely following out those instructions?"

"Yes."

"After you had bought the option you heard an announcement over the loud speaker, did you not that the owner of the dog would redeem the option?"

"Yes."

"You do not know of your own knowledge whether you could or could not have redeemed the option?"

"No."

"Did you read the papers you seized?"

"No."

"How then did you identify them here?"

"By numbers on them."

"Are you under pay to come here and testify?"

"I draw a monthly salary."

"Have you ever been convicted of a felony?"

"No."

"Are you hostile of that?"

"Yes."

OTHER WITNESSES

Melvin P. Myatt, investigator in the office of District Attorney Healey, told of his part in the now celebrated raid on December 18, and of seeing Defendant Hays writing on some white and pink slips of paper but could not say what he was writing on them. Deputy Sheriff Thomas Smith was also one of the official raiders. After some trouble, he with others, got on the roof of the building where there was "a little house," in which he found four men and some photograph records. He did not know the men and the defendants were not among them. Under Sheriff Aljeto did not respond when his name was called and it was explained that he was out of the city on official business.

BRINGS BACK MEMORIES

Then came the dog owners, followed by G. Cristofani, an option seller at the track, whose appearance brought back recollections of the "I Don't Know Club," which he came famous at the preliminary examination several months ago. Although employed at the track for two seasons he was not acquainted with the defendants, although he had seen them around there. His examination was brief and he went on his know-nothing way. Adjournment then was ordered until this morning at 10 o'clock by Judge Johnston.

15 FELONS WOUNDED IN PRISON ROW

hospital after receiving anti-toxin injections to prevent lockjaw.

Prison officials said Dagne attacked his victims from behind in all cases, sneaking up on them as they slept, leaning against supports or conversing in groups.

Nearly all of the victims were old. None were younger than 40. Scott was 72, Jackson 69 and Hallett 72. They all were unable to stay out of Dagne's path as he hurried about the courtyard, stopping only momentarily to slash his victims.

MADE FROM WIRE

Prison attendants said the weapon had been made from fence wire, obtained from the barrier surrounding San Quentin's vegetable garden.

Guard Charles C. Rexford fired a single shot that dropped Dagne as he ran through the yard, slashing at other prisoners. More than 100 convicts were in the recreation area at the time, jamming its restricted space.

Dagne was serving a seven-year term for assault to kill from Santa Barbara.

FIRST TROUBLE

Guard Rexford was compelled to wait precious minutes before shooting Dagne as the Filipino dodged wildly back and forth between fellow inmates, adroitly using them as shields to protect himself.

The disturbance was the first of serious nature to mark the administration of Warden Court Smith, six foot, six inch, giant police officer who recently succeeded James B. Holohan as warden of the nation's most populous prison.

Knifings have been frequent in the crowded cell blocks, work rooms and recreation yard, where facilities originally intended for less than 3000 men have been jammed with nearly 6000 convicts.

"Innocent Man" Must Remain On Alcatraz Island

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—UP—Frank Leaman, now serving a federal sentence on Alcatraz Island for a bank robbery, which Frank Forrest Smith confessed he committed, may remain in Federal prison regardless of whether the confession is substantiated. Federal officials said today.

They said Leaman faces a federal charge because he assertedly fled from one state to another when sought for a robbery in Columbus, Ohio.

Smith, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in another case, said, after being sentenced, he and not Leaman was responsible for the bank robbery. Authorities said they doubted the truth of the confession.

Townsend Books Being Examined

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—UP—Activities of Edward J. Margott, State area manager for the Townsend old age pension organization, were checked, and records and books in the office here were examined today by agents of the federal congressional committee investigating the O. A. R. T.

The agents, Donald Y. Wiggins and James N. Berry, an attorney, refused to disclose what their findings were but said they would leave for Seattle to continue the investigation after completing work here.

What's going on here

...what's happening in these 40 houses

—the curing and ageing of leaf tobacco, that's what's going on.

Thousands of hogsheads of mild ripe tobacco are under these roofs... just lying here ageing and sweetening and mellowing for Chesterfield cigarettes.

Like Rip Van Winkle, they sleep—the tobaccos getting mellow and milder for the cigarette that satisfies.
